

Location: Moment 2 (Elementary School)

Character: Uncle

Reward: Overthinking Stamp

Exchange 1

Uncle: There's the birthday champ! Has this been the best birthday ever or what?

	Defensive	Sappy	Witty
Statement	I wouldn't know, I haven't opened up all my presents yet.	Yeah, I just wish Grandpa could be here. Mom said he got sick.	I can't believe you really got me that card set! It must have cost a million dollars!
Question	What did Nanna get me? I know you saw her wrap it.	It WAS the best ever! What were your birthdays like, Uncle?	Of course, these cards that you got me are awesome! Where did you get them?

Responses:

D S	You know I can't do that. I wish I could, but your mother would never let me hear the end of it. / Just trust me when I say you're gonna like it.
W SQ	You don't have to worry about that, kiddo. Seeing you smile is all that matters to me.
S Q	Oh, nothing special. I never got this many presents, and DEFINITELY never had a cake this big.
S S	Me too kiddo...once Grandpa gets better, we can all spend more time together. / Hey, maybe you can show him those moves you pulled last game! I'm sure he'd be impressed.
D S	I don't blame you. Just be sure to spend some time with your family once you're done, you hear?

Exchange 2

Uncle: Say, your cousin made me buy that soccer game you have... / Maybe we could all play it the next time you're visiting?

	Defensive	Sappy	Witty
Statement	I don't know... you might have to get better if we're gonna play. I beat you last time.	That sounds great, but I haven't had much time with school and practice. Hope I won't hold you back too much.	Really? I hope Momma lets me play longer this time.
Question	You won't mind if I play with my friends instead, right?	I'd really like to. You sure I won't be holding you back?	Yeah, I had a lot of fun! Are you sure you're okay with being carried by me again?

Responses:

D Q	Oh, yeah, no worries. Just gives me more time to practice.
W S	That won't be an issue. I'll make sure to ask her to bump it up to at least 2 hours this time.
D S	That's what I like to hear. Looks like I'll have to step it up as well.
S SQ	Come on, where's the excitement from last time? Don't worry about how well you do, just have fun!
W Q	Oho, looks like that energy hasn't gone anywhere! / Fair warning, it might not be as easy as before... I've been practicing just about every day since last time.

Exchange 3

Uncle: By the way, did your mom tell you about those alien sightings? / I've been keeping an eye on the news. Apparently, a UFO was spotting flying towards town... / Could be the real deal this time.

	Defensive	Sappy	Witty
Statement	I can't understand how people actually fall for all that stuff. Momma says it's all made up.	I haven't really had the time to watch a lot of TV. Momma says I have to go to bed by 8.	Yeah, my friends at school wanna see if they can beam up our teacher so we don't have homework.
Question	Do you really believe all that stuff?	Do you think they're gonna come and get me?	Are you sure? You said the same thing about ghosts.

Responses:

S S	EIGHT?! I understand getting enough sleep, but doesn't she know how important it is to stay informed?
W S	That's not that funny, you know. If they DO get abducted, who knows how long it'll be until they get brought back?
D S	To be fair, they're some real crazies out there nowadays. / That's why you gotta stay informed, y'know?
WD SQ	Eh, don't read too much into it. Could be another hoax, for all we know. / Either way, it doesn't hurt to be too careful nowadays.
S Q	Course I do. Even got my basement packed with enough food to last a decade when the worst of it finally comes. It always pays to be prepared.

Uncle: Hey, before I forget...go easy on your cousin, yeah? He's...had a few rough weeks, so don't be too blunt with him.

(The player gains reward and exits dialogue.)

Location: Moment 4 (High School)

Character: Grandma

Reward: Mumble Stamp

Exchange 1

Grandma: Oh...hello pumpkin.

	Defensive	Sappy	Witty
Statement	Hey Nanna. Didn't know you were here.	Grandma! Please save me from evil Momma!	There's my super Nanna! Glad you could come visit.
Question	I'm looking for my phone. Have you seen it?	You look pretty tired. Are you feeling alright?	Where have you been?

Responses:

DW SQ	Well, I just wanted to stop by and see how you all were doing. I hope I'm not intruding.
S Q	I'm doing just fine. Just old age catching up, is all. / You don't have to worry about your Nanna, though!
S S	You know that won't work on me anymore, even if my memory isn't what it used to be. / You are way too old to pull those kinds of tricks on me now.
D Q	No hug, then? I suppose you're too old for that now. / I haven't seen it, but maybe I could help you look around for it.
W S	I'm glad to see you too, dear.

Exchange 2

Grandma: My, where has the time gone? Who knew that my little pumpkin could grow so big right under my nose?

	Defensive	Sappy	Witty
Statement	You know, you can't really consider me your "little" pumpkin anymore.	I wasn't going to stay a kid forever, you know.	Well, Mom's kept me on a balanced diet. Plenty of meat and screen time for me to grow big and strong!
Question	I'm not a baby anymore. When are you going to stop calling me that nickname?	Nanna... Are you also afraid of getting older?	I wasn't going to stay a kid forever, you know.

Responses:

D S	I guess you're right. Maybe I'll have to call you my big pumpkin instead, though that doesn't quite have the same ring to it.
D Q	Sorry Pum--... I mean sweetie. I guess I just forgot for a second that you are all grown up now.
W S	Oh, I'm sure she has. That daughter of mine has some mysterious ways to produce a kid as amazing as you!
W Q	Haha, I suppose... It just went by so fast. It feels like you were just my little sunshine yesterday, and a blink and a half later, here we are.
S S	I know, I know...I just wish you could stay my pumpkin for just a bit longer.
S Q	That's...well, of course I am, but you shouldn't worry about that. / There's a lot to be afraid of, sure, but there's a whole lot more to be excited about, don't you think?

Exchange 3

Grandma: Listen, sweetie, I just wanted to tell you that I love you so very much. / At your age, I know it must feel like there's a lot going on right now, but I hope you'll never be too old to talk to your Nanna, okay?

	Defensive	Sappy	Witty
Statement	Sure.	I just hope Mom lets up a little bit. It's been really hard lately.	I'd be lucky if I'm as cool as you when I'm older.
Question	Yeah, I love you too. Can you help me look for my phone now?	Are you really sure you're doing alright?	Would you still love me if I was a dog? Or a snail? What about a puddle?

Responses:

D Q	Right, of course...don't let your old Nanna keep you up. / You start looking, I'll be there in just a minute.
D S	Just hang in there, pumpkin. Everything will work out in the end. Your Nanna is sure of it!
W Q	All those things, no matter what. / I'll always love my little pumpkin!
W S	I'm sure you will, just you wait. / Life only gets better the longer it goes. Trust me.
S Q	I'm fine, dear. / Please don't worry about your Nanna. You've got plenty on your plate to worry about already.
S S	I know she can be a bit much sometimes, but she only wants the best for you. / She loves you with all of her heart, she just doesn't always know how to show it.

Grandma: Look, honey... I know your mom can sometimes make you upset, but it comes from a good place. If you want to talk with her, try not to rile her up, okay?

(The player gains reward and exits dialogue.)
